DEATH OF A JOURNALIST.

Daniel Lyons Expires Suddenly—The Father of the Hui Kalaialaia No More.

Yesterday morning at 3 o'clock, Daniel Lyons drew his last breath, at the Queen's Hospital. The deceased was well known in Honolulu. He arrived in the beginning of 1882 and was connected with several newspapers during his residence here. His first enterprise was the "Daily Hawaiian" which did not prove a financial success. In 1884 Lyons was made the manager of the native newspaper the Elele, which was the property of F. H. Hayselden. He conducted that paper for several years and was at one time the editor of it after its being issued in the English language. The deceased was an intimate friend of the late W. M. Gibson, and one of his faithful followers during the troubles of 1887. Dan Lyons organized the Hui Kalaialaia, a native political society, which at one time was a power at the elections in Hawaii. He was for several years the president of the organization. Imbued with republican ideas he succeeded in making the society advocate the election of all public officials. This measure was not accepted favorably and Lyons lost his prestige among the Hawaiians. About six years ago he met with great misfortune through the death of his wife and three children from diphtheria. The unfortunate man was completely stricken down, and for a while it was thought necessary to place him under restriction at the Asylum. Dan Lyons had undoubtedly been a clever and bright man in his best days. He was a kind father and a good friend and was well esteemed in this community. He had been ailing for a few days and his friends at the American League through the advice of Doctor Wood had him removed to the Queen's Hospital where he expired. The immediate cause of his death was apoplexy. The deceased was nearly 60 years old and leaves behind two children of tender years. It was in the palmy days of his manhood that Dan Lyons was best known.

The news of his death will be received with deep sympathy and sorrow by many who knew and loved him in Virginia City and Nevada in the early days of the Comstock excitement. Well-known and respected by the men who have become multi-millionaires from the mines of that region, he was the more beloved and esteemed by the young writers of the press, many of whom have won fame and moderate fortunes by their pens, and they who have passed away have left their memories green. Among them the names are hastily recalled of "Mark Twain" (S. Clemens), Bret Harte, Sam Davis, Ed. W. Townsend ("Major Max") and "Chimmie Faden". Arthur McEwen, Col. Shaw, Ambrose Bierce, John P. Cosgrave, Dan. O'Connell, R. J. M. Duggett, Ex-Minister Merrill, McClatchy of the Bee, Tom Flynn, Dr. Hart and others of the same grade whose names have escaped. Among the dearest to his memory of the passed away were the Brothers Dennis and Jack McCarthy of the old Virginia Chronicle. His manly life on the Comstock as newspaper man, legislator, county and city official, fireman, and in other pursuits will now be pleasantly recalled by his former associates, and many a kindly word will be said and written of him throughout the United States, and many a pungent and witty anecdote narrated of one of the bravest, kindest and honest hearted men of those pioneer days.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the American League and Sharpshooters, and was attended by numerous friends. The pall bearers were: Captain Kidwell, Senator McCandless, T. B. Murray, Walter Wall, James Sheehan, and Harry Evans.
